Lexile is a measure of the difficulty for a given text or a student's reading ability level. Levels work in increments of 10, with 10L being the lowest. Measures below 10L are considered Beginning Reader.

Accelerated Reader (AR) is a computer program used by teachers to track reading comprehension. Parents and students use AR levels to find books that fit reading and interest/grade appeal levels. AR levels are represented by three measurements: Interest Level (IL), Book Level (BL), and AR Points.

Lexile and AR levels are shown on NoveList K-8 Plus Book Detail pages. Parents can also use the Advanced Search function to search for books that fall within specific Lexile and AR ranges.

We look for books that engage our reluctant reader.

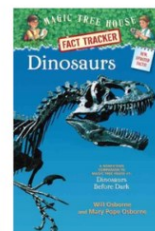

Both offbeat illustrated series will appeal to readers who love the idea of animals as police officers. Dog Man is bursting with scribbly art and unhinged humor, while Platypus Police Squad is a spoof of clichéd cop shows. -- Rebecca Honeycutt
